

History Can Hurt

This is a special place. It is a monument to the people who lived, fought, and died here. Some of the historic structures you will see are fragile and so are you! Please keep yourself and these structures from being injured today.

Climbing is unsafe and can damage something that cannot be replaced, including you. Stay on designated pathways.

Watch your step. Many of the surfaces on the walking paths or around the historic structures may be uneven or slippery, especially in the rain.

As part of the National Park System, everything here is protected. Don't remove or disturb any part of the historic structures or any living thing.

Some areas are closed with ropes and other barriers. Crossing them puts you at risk of serious injury.

Use insect repellent in the warmer months. Beware of fire ant mounds.

Summer here is hot and humid, so drink plenty of water and take frequent breaks out of the sun.

Contact a ranger if you have questions and concerns. Enjoy your visit!
